On 30 August 1950, the Kolunkovac section of the pro-Cominform (Vidali) Communist Party of Trieste held a full assembly at which Bruno Grassi, a delegate of the Vidali Party Central Committee, made a speech in keeping with directives handed down by the Executive Committee of the Central Committee. In substance, his speech stressed the following points:

- The events in Korea have had a favorable effect on Party members because they have realized that it is not important to follow the military development of the conflict but rather the political aspect and irplications.
- The nations that make up the "imperialist" camp are at odds with one another and the Party must make the most of this opportunity. The United States would like to unite all the forces opposing Communism and invite them to join the strangle against Communism, but this is proving to be a difficult task. To put this project into effect, the United States will have to start a war,
- c. There is also a divergence of opinion emong the "imperialists" as to whether or not the atom bomb should be used, inasmuch as all countries are not in favor of this solution. There is also some dissidence on the Schuman Plan and other matters.
- d. United States officials are intent on eliminating all these differences because the country is seriously preparing for wax and the existent friction will prove detrimental to this goal. They would like to declare the Communist Party illegal, as was done in Japan. Preparations are now under way to dismember the unions in Canada, Australia, Africa and Greace. The working masses, under the guidance of the Soviet Union, are awaiting the struggle.
- It is Tito's intention to arrest and kill all the "healthy elements" in Yugoslavia so as to remain in power. The assistant British Minister of Foreign Affairs. Davies, is spending considerable time in Belgrade to settle some of the differences between Rome and Belgrade. The biggest question is the Free Territory of Trieste. Italian Prime Minister Alcide De Casperi has been instructed not to do anything that would antagonize the Yugoslav regime. Tito would like to have a Yugoslav control commission assigned to Trieste once the Territory is divided.
